Chan, Jennifer Hing Wai Wu, 62, died in her home on September 13, 2012. She was born under communist rule in China on August 26, 1950, and the youngest of six children. She endured persecution and ridicule as the child of a "land owner" and was forbidden from pursuing a university education. In 1972, at the young age of 22, she escaped China and received amnesty in Hong Kong. While there, she worked a number of demeaning jobs to save enough money in order to create a better life for herself. By 1974 she received a coveted opportunity to immigrate to Honolulu, Hawaii. When she first stepped foot on American soil, she didn't speak a word of English and had less than a hundred dollars to her name. Jennifer toiled in the restaurant business for more than 35 years and learned how to speak English by phonetically studying menus and conversing with customers who quickly grew to love and admire her. Through her courage, hard work, and perseverance Jennifer went on to own and operate a number of restaurants in Hawaii: Chan's Dim Sum and Wonton Restaurant and Chan's Chinese Restaurant on South King Street, Chan's Gourmet Buffet on Nimitz Highway, and Little Village Noodle House in Chinatown. To date, Little Village has won more than 20 awards for outstanding service and cuisine including numerous Hale Aina and Ilima awards. The restaurant has also been positively reviewed by the New York Times, Zagat, Fodor's, and the San Francisco Chronicle. Jennifer was diagnosed with multiple myeloma in November 2008 and fought courageously against the disease for almost four years. She relocated to New York City in 2010 to begin receiving treatment at Memorial Sloan-Kettering hospital. While there, she underwent two stem cell transplants, but ultimately lost her battle against cancer. Jennifer was brought back to Hawaii to spend her remaining days and passed away peacefully in her home surrounded by her family. Jennifer Hing Wai Chan touched the lives of every single person she encountered and will be remembered as a devoted wife, loving mother, doting grandmother, lifelong friend, and a respected leader. She will be missed. In lieu of flowers, please give generously to Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center: <http://mskcc.convio.net/goto/jenniferchan> or at 1-866-815-9501. Public visitation will take place at Borthwick Mortuary, 1330 Maunakea Street, on September 23, 11 a.m. – 12 p.m. The memorial service will begin at 12:30 p.m. followed by burial at Valley of the Temples Memorial Park, 47-200 Kahekili Hwy, at 2:30 p.m. Jennifer is survived by husband Kenneth, son Brian, daughter Janna, daughter-in-law Aimee, brothers Paul and How Ming Wu, sisters Qing Xiang and Qing Hung Wu, and grandchildren Ellie and Connor. Chapin, Helen Geracimos, October 6, 1926 – June 9, 2012 Helen Geracimos Chapin passed away on Saturday, June 10, 2012 after a several years of declining health. Born in Honolulu in 1926, the daughter of Greek immigrants Pota Demetrak and George Geracimos, Helen was both the product of and witness to immense social and cultural change in the Hawaiian Islands and the nation. From barefoot days in Waikiki, to horseback riding on the Big Island where her Uncle George Lycurgus ran the Hilo Hotel and the early Volcano House, to Punahou School, to her first foray into journalism at the Hilo Tribune-Herald, Helen was truly a daughter of Hawaii. These early experiences shaped Helen's lifelong interest in multiculturalism, ethnic history, and journalism. She attended the University of Hawaii, but left for the Mainland before finishing her undergraduate degree. In 1957, having survived a bout of polio in the 1954 epidemic, she came back to Honolulu with two young daughters, to live with her mother and finish her B.A., in English literature. Ukulele in hand, she returned to the mainland for graduate school at the University of New Mexico, which provided the educational program in literature she sought, along with the opportunity to support her family. In Albuquerque, she met and married Henry (Hank) Chapin. They went on to have two sons. Helen taught English literature at the University of New Mexico, at Kentucky State University, and at Wilmington College in southwestern Ohio, and completed her doctorate at Ohio State University. Throughout these years, she was active in the Civil Rights and anti-Vietnam War movements, from founding the Scott County (Kentucky) Improvement Association and integrating a Brownie troop in Georgetown, Kentucky, to working with Quakers in Yellow Springs, Ohio, against the War. In the meantime, she became interested in the literature of American ethnic immigrants, in her own ethnic roots, and – as an early feminist – in the changing role of women. In 1978, spurred by the illness of her mother, Helen fulfilled her wish to come home to Hawaii. She found a new role for herself at a then-small college – now a major local university – called Hawaii Pacific; at HPU, she was able to spread her wings and re-enter professional life in Hawaii with great enthusiasm. In 1979, the Hawaiian Journal of History published Helen's article "From Sparta to Spencer Street: Greek Women in Hawaii." She taught literature and mythology, administered HPU's off-campus programs on local military bases, and rose to the position of Dean and Vice President before "retiring" in 1995. The following year, Shaping History, Helen's landmark study of the role of newspapers in Hawaii, was published by University of Hawaii Press. Helen continued to participate actively in civic and professional organizations, serving as President of the Hawaiian Historical Society and editor of the Hawaiian Journal of History, President of the Oahu Alliance for the Mentally Ill, President of the Media Council, a member of Pen Women, and of the Society of Professional Journalists, which named her to its Hall of Fame in 2002. A second major publication, A Guide to Newspapers of Hawaii, 1834 – 2000, was released by the Hawaiian Historical Society in 2000. It was distributed to school libraries throughout Hawaii, and for years thereafter, Helen received requests from high school students for help with their Hawaiian history projects. She is survived by her husband Hank and her four children (Georganne Chapin of Upper Nyack, NY; Julia Bozzo (Michael), of Bellingham, WA; Henry E. (Chip) Chapin and Nicholas King Chapin, both of Honolulu); three grandchildren (Ernesto Echeverria, Gina Bozzo, and Deanna Bozzo); her niece Jill Smyth of Kailua, HI, and nephew John Wassman of the Big Island; and many other nieces and nephews and beloved family members and friends on Oahu, in Hilo, and on the Mainland. Her sister, Constance (Connie) Geracimos Wassman preceded her in death. Helen will be remembered as a person who was at once an accomplished scholar, a loving mother, wife, cousin and “auntie,” and wonderful friend and mentor to many. A celebration of her life will take place at 3 pm, Saturday, June 16, at the King Kamehameha V Judiciary Center, 417 South King Street, Honolulu. People wishing to make donations in Helen’s honor may do so to the Helen G. Chapin Scholarship Fund, Hawaii Pacific University, 1164 Bishop Street, Honolulu, HI 96813 ; or the Hawaiian Historical Society, 560 Kawaihāo Street, Honolulu, HI 96813. Ching, Kazuko (“Kay”) Shikuma, Kay passed away on June 12, 2012, in Honolulu. She was born on January 13, 1927, in Hilo. She left Hilo to attend the University of Hawaii at Manoa, where she received a bachelor’s degree and 5th year certificate in social work. There she met Donald D.H. Ching, the love of her life. They were wed in 1951, in spite of the concerns of some members of their families about a Chinese-Japanese marriage, which was unusual at that time. Underneath her quiet demeanor she was the Rock of Gibraltar upon whom Donald and her family and friends could depend. While raising five children and working as a social worker at the Department of Education, she supported Donald’s political contributions as a state legislator and a delegate to two State Constitutional Conventions, hosting dozens of campaign events and legislative functions. It is only when looking back that we can fully appreciate her strength and all that she did for her husband, family and community. Kay had the uncanny way of making everyone feel at ease and part of the family. A loving mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, she made her family a priority and taught them the importance of respect, family, great friends and an ono, hearty meal with dessert. She is survived by her children, Donna (Skip Bittenbender) of Honolulu, Debbie (Jack Lee) of Berkeley, California, Sandra Kimura of Hilo, Jeff and Mel of Honolulu; grandchildren, Harrison Bittenbender, Kyle and Joel Lee, Jonathan, Brandon (Yuko Mihara) and Ryan Kimura, and Emi Ching; great-grandchildren, Landon and Ella Kimura; and brothers, Jiro Shikuma (Doris) of Torrance, California, Miki Shikuma (Kimie) of Honolulu, and Takao Shikuma (Elaine) of Hilo. CHUN, ANITA "OMA", 83, of Honolulu, Hawaii died peacefully at her home after a long battle with cancer on Friday, September 21, 2012. Oma was born on March 6, 1929 in Teisnach, Germany to Edmund and Anna Heigl. She is survived by her sisters Rosemarie Duvall of Pasadena, Maryland and Kathrina Billing of Killeen, Texas.
