JACKSON, MARGERY, March 27, 1915 – October 25, 2012 Margery M. Morris Connolly Jackson Born March 27, 1915 in Luther Township, Ontario, Canada Growing up in the small Ontario town of Fergus, Margery met the love of her life Thomas Leslie Jackson (deceased May 21, 2004). They dated in high school and married while Tom attended Theology School at Victoria College, University of Toronto. Meanwhile Marge learned the fashion industry as a seamstress, dressmaker and milliner. Marge and Tom had eleven children all of whom survive her – 5 Daughters Janice Higgins of Penticton, B. C. Canada; Marney Cherry of Richmond, B. C. Canada; Sally Hastings of Mililani, Hawaii; Kathy Jackson of Sparks, Nevada; Susan Uwekoolani of Kahului, Hawaii; and 6 Sons Hugh Jackson of Ballynulto, N. Ireland; Thomas Jackson of Cranbrook, B. C. Canada; Joseph Jackson of Kitimat, B. C. Canada; David Jackson of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada; Jim Jackson of Edmonton, Alberta Canada; John Jackson of Victoria, B.C Canada. She is also survived by 28 Grandchildren; 31 Great Grandchildren and 1 Great Great Granddaughter. They had a fascinating life together moving from Toronto to the wilds of the Peace River, then to the mission fields of Trinidad, British West Indies. After a calling to Wesley United Church in Edmonton, Tom joined the Royal Canadian Navy. Marge, ever a good “navy wife” cared for their ever expanding family, creating a home at each posting, sewing most of the clothes for the family, producing nutritious meals, and helping all her children grow to their full potential. After retiring from the military, Marge and Tom and their five youngest children moved to Waimanalo, Oahu where Tom served as a Methodist Minister. During this time Marge worked as a volunteer at Castle Hospital and also in the gift shop at Sea Life Park. There followed churches in Ewa Beach, Kauai, and Makawao Union Church on Maui. For 20 years Marge worked as a volunteer at Leahi Hospital Thrift Shop until she was 90 years old and she found the 2 hour bus ride from Mililani too difficult. Marge’s large family is saddened by the loss of their matriarch but are proud of her as a model of service to others, the church and the public. Marge was respected in her community and an inspiration for faithfulness within the Mililani Presbyterian Church. She was a strong but gentle person who cherished every individual in her large family to the last of her days. Memorial Service to be held at Mililani Presbyterian Church November 10th at 2:30pm. Ashes to be scattered at a future date as Marge donated her remains to the John A. Burns School of Medicine, University of Hawaii. In lieu of flowers a donation may be made in Marge’s name to St. Francis Sullivan Family Hospice Center (www.stfrancishawaii.org) or a charity of your choice. John Kapualani Koko, June 25, 2012 John Kapualani Koko at the age of 51 waited patiently for the angels to come and escort him to heaven and graciously received his golden heart from our Lord and Savior. Having heart problems since a young boy, John never let his health challenges stand in his way of achieving great things in his life. For over 30 years John was the bass player for the Na Hoku Hanohano award winning group Makaha Sons of Niihau and Makaha Sons. While sharing their Hawaiian music, dance, language and culture, John had the opportunity to travel all over the world and meet so many wonderful people. He truly loved to entertain his fans. He was an accomplished artist. He worked with a few mediums; including oils, acrylics, water and charcoal. John created such spectacular oil paintings of scenic landscapes. He was an avid and exceptional chess player. He love competition in any game and in life. John even tried a little bit of modeling on the side. He shared some of his photos on his FB page. He was most proud of his “Calendar” with no pose to risque. John loved God. Everything he did was put in prayer and he trusted that the Lord would guide him in the right direction. John never forgot to say thank you Jesus for everything he had. He always passed on his blessings to others. That’s what our mom taught us. He was devoted to his family first and foremost. Spending time with family was what he loved to do, whether it was going out at a restaurant to have lunch, going to school functions, or even just riding in the car around the island looking for that perfect sunset. Our Brother John will truly be missed by many who knew him. John, until we meet again. Joseph Edward Kennedy, a longtime resident of the North Shore, passed from this life in his sleep on July 15. He was born in Chicago, Illinois in 1948 To Edward and Dorothy Kennedy. After graduating from Chicago schools, he attended the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Summer fieldwork at Lapakahi, Kohala, in 1969 and a master's degree in anthropology at the University of Hawaii in 1974 set Joe on a career in Hawaiian archaeology, where he became well known and respected as the principal of Archaeological Consultants of Hawaii and later Archaeological Consultants of the Pacific He conducted archaeological research in American Samoa and in Micronesia, and he participated in excavations in Guatemala and in Egypt. Kennedy's archaeological survey of Waimea Valley, Oahu, in 2005 documented the importance of the valley to Hawaii's history. It led the City and County of Honolulu to take measures to preserve Waimea after initially voting to allow development there. A pristine Waimea valley is one of his lasting gifts to Hawaii. Kennedy was a prolific and diverse author, with several books to his credit that were outside the realm of Cultural Resources Management and Heritage Archaeology. His Coca Exotica, An Illustrated History of Cocaine, published by Associated University Presses in 1985 led to his lecturing extensively in academic circles on the history of coca and cocaine. The Tropical Frontier, America's South Sea Colony, published by the Micronesian Archaeological Research Center and distributed by the University of Hawaii Press in 2009, was a benchmark history of U.S. hegemony in American Samoa. His historical survey The North Shore of Oahu appeared through Arcadia Press in 2011. Ruffian Dick, his fictionalized portrayal of the famous anthropologist Sir Richard Burton, is currently under review by publishers through his agent, Peter Riva. In addition to numerous contract reports in Pacific archaeology, Kennedy was a frequent contributor to Natural History, Discovering Archaeology, Archaeology, Discover, Geoarchaeology and other outlets, including the University of Chicago's Perspectives in Biology and Medicine, where he examined the potential for the return of Smallpox to the planet earth. He edited the legendary but short-lived journal Native Planters, which he started with others in 1982 to highlight the agricultural heritage of the Hawaiian Islands. He was a founding member and a treasurer and past president of the Society for Hawaiian Archaeology, a Principal Humanities Scholar for the California Council on the Humanities, and a recipient of the Historic Hawaii Foundation's Preservation Award. S. Joseph Kennedy leaves behind his special friend Voralak Riensuwan of Bangkok, Thailand, cousins in Chicago, Illinois, as well as countless friends around the world, who appreciated his wry humor, his love of dogs, baseball, and the Chicago Cubs, as well as his willingness to welcome one and all at his compound on the North Shore of Oahu. He is remembered as a gracious host and a raconteur of note, whose Pacific stories rivaled those of Michener, London, Day, and Beck for their color and their insights into life in the Pacific Islands. He had the uncommon ability to tell a great story and make one laugh as well as an equally uncommon capacity for friendship. His charismatic personality acted as a magnet, drawing people to him and to each other and affecting their lives in deep and positive ways. Joe Kennedy will be deeply missed, and we hope that a gentle mist will fall at his memorial service as Hawaii mourns his passing. [Honolulu Star-Advertiser 29 July 2012]
