Jean McGraw was born Sept. 14, 1914, in Newport News, VA, and died April 5, 2005. The daughter of Col. Thomas F. McNeill and Martha (Jackson) McNeill, she had a keen interest in her genealogy and was very proud of her Scot-Irish heritage. She visited her ancestral home on the Isle of Barre in Scotland and was a member of the Clan McNeill. Jean was one of the first American high school Foreign Exchange students, spending a year in France. She returned from France to Hawai'i where her father was stationed at Schofield Barracks, and attended the University of Hawai'i, Manoa. She always hoped to return to Hawaii to live, which she did in 2004. During World War II she worked with the American Red Cross, serving in the European Theater. In 1947 she married Walter McGraw and moved to Racine, Wisc., his home. Jean graduated from Ohio University and held Masters Degrees from Columbia Teachers College, in Foreign Languages and the University of Wisconsin-Madison, in Library Science. She was the school librarian at Washington Jr. High School and Gilmore Jr. High School, both in Racine for 25 years. Jean was a music lover and was an accomplished pianist. She was the accompanist for her school's choir for over 20 years and loved performing music with her sons. Jean loved nature and the outdoors and was a tireless environmental activist. In 1995 she was honored by the Sierra Club of Southeastern Wisconsin as its "Environmentalist of the Year." She was also a long time activist for the Democratic Party and in 1997 was named Racine County "Democrat of the Year." Preceded in death by son Bruce McGraw, Jean is survived by two sons, Dennis McGraw of Kaua'i and Michael (Catherine) McGraw of Fairway, KS; two grandsons and one great grandson. Roderick Fulton McPhee, who served as president of Punahou School for a quarter century before his retirement in 1994, died Friday of pancreatic cancer at his Manoa home at the age of 76. Associates and community leaders called him one of the architects of modern Hawai'i education, an exemplary leader in that field, and a warm and witty friend whose legacy includes generations of Hawai'i children educated well to serve the future. Graduates remember how often they saw him striding through the elementary school units or spending time talking to youngsters. "He was a cool guy who really cared about everyone and how they were doing," one graduate said. His successor, Punahou president James Scott, said the school community is deeply saddened at McPhee's passing and grateful for his "26 extraordinary years" including program innovations, facilities renewal, "and lasting impact not only on the school but on the many students who benefitted from his leadership." "Rod often mentioned that he 'shook 10,500 hands,' referencing the number of students who graduated during his tenure," said Scott. "Speaking personally, Rod McPhee gave me my diploma in 1970. Ever since then he has been a source of wisdom and encouragement." McPhee came to Hawai'i in 1968 to take the helm of one of the oldest private, independent schools in the nation. During his 26-year tenure at the 165-year-old institution, he raised $40 million and launched a building boom on campus with the construction or renovation of almost half the buildings. "Rod was the key to Punahou's 20th century growth," said Thurston Twigg-Smith, the school's only trustee who served throughout McPhee's Punahou career. "His legacy was in providing a way for private schools to do things that public schools could then follow. Punahou could experiment, and then he brought the public schools into the results of those experiments." McPhee and his wife, Sharon, were synonymous with the school that was chosen in 1985 by President Reagan as one of six schools in the nation in the Exemplary Private School Recognition Project. In those same years the Punahou symphony played Carnegie Hall and the school band marched in the Rose Parade. "He and Sharon will go down as Punahou's most important headmaster team," Twigg-Smith said. "When Dudley Pratt, then chairman of the Punahou board, and I greeted Rod and Sharon as they arrived on the Lurline, we joked about not needing any immediate fund drives. "But within months a big storm caused Bishop Hall to sink a foot and it had to be replaced. That began an almost continuous series of major campaigns that replaced many of the school's facilities — the library, Pauahi Hall, the athletic facilities, planning for the science facilities, and even the administrative building where his office was." Educator Randy Moore, current chairman of the Punahou board, said McPhee's impact on Punahou was dramatic, not just for the physical changes but also for development of its academic credentials. "Punahou is a huge force in the community," said Moore. "John Fox (McPhee's predecessor) grew it in physical size, but Rod grew it academically. After Rod's stewardship, Punahou was a dramatically better school educationally." Attorney David Fairbanks, also a member of the Punahou board during McPhee's tenure, said McPhee "took education in general to another level in Hawai'i — not just at Punahou but in the community — and he did it without arrogance and conceit." When McPhee retired from Punahou, he and his wife stayed in Hawai'i, and both continued to be visible in the community and active in charity work. He served on the boards of First Hawaiian Bank, Aloha

Airlines, Persis Corporation, Hawai'i Community Foundation, and Seabury Hall on Maui. At the time of his illness he was chairman of the Board of Governors of Chaminade University of Honolulu, chairman of Barstow Foundation and president of the Samuel N. and Mary Castle Foundation. He came to Punahou from his position as superintendent of the Glencoe public school system in Illinois, just as his only son was heading off to college. Before that he spent four years as an assistant professor of education at Harvard Graduate School of Education and three years as director of the Advanced Administrative Institute, also at Harvard, and two years as assistant executive secretary of the American Association of School Administrators. His own doctorate in administration was earned at the University of Chicago, where he had stayed after being called upon by then President Dwight Eisenhower to be the midwestern field representative of 10 states for the 1955-56 White House Conference on Education. During that time he also served as staff associate of the Midwest Administration Center at the University of Chicago and spent a summer as a staff member for the Workshop in Educational Administration at Stanford University. McPhee was born Jan. 30, 1929 in Eau Claire, Wis. He began his school career as a speech and English teacher in the 1950s in Kohler, Wis., and never lost his belief that you put good teachers in the classroom and then let them alone. When he retired from Punahou, McPhee said he wanted to be known "as someone who let teachers teach." Frank Damon, a member of the Punahou board during many of McPhee's years, agreed that his administrative abilities were superior. "Rod McPhee was a top educator and administrator who led Punahou to be one of the great schools of the nation." McPhee was always an outspoken critic of the education process when it failed, including the state's public education system. He once criticized what he called the labor union "mindset" in public schools, saying he felt it could block good education. To that, former Hawai'i State Teachers Association executive director John Radcliffe labeled Punahou "Hawai'i's snootiest school for the moneyed classes." McPhee stuck to his guns, saying the Department of Education was bogged down by bureaucracy and a lack of trust. "I sense a tremendous frustration of parents not being able to affect the decisions," he said back in 1994. "He came from a public school background," said Moore, "so he had this perspective into both approaches to education and he was a regular commentator on public schools and what he thought public schools could do better. He felt there was too much meddling at the top levels and not enough empowering of the principals." McPhee also was critical of the principals' union, saying restrictive union policies hinder rather than help attempts to improve schools. "We need to turn our attention to what's good for students rather than what's good for the people working in the system," he wrote in a newspaper commentary in 1997. "We must change the structure, or resign ourselves to discussing the same issues a decade from now." McPhee is survived by his wife and son, Dennis, a disc jockey at KSSK radio in Honolulu. Funeral services are pending. The family asks that in lieu of flowers donations be made to the Roderick F. and Sharon McPhee Scholarship Fund at Punahou for students with financial need. Hideo "Zip" Miyazaki died at home on June 3, 2005, at the age of 89. Nicknamed Zip because of his speed on the basepaths, he retired after a career as a carpenter for Lihue Plantation. He attained the position of "leader man" among crews working on challenging and often-dangerous backcountry projects such as forming and building sluice-gates for reservoirs, aqueducts for canals, bridges for haulcane roadways, as well as more routine carpentry projects. He once noted that "when I started out I carried lumber for 2 years before they let me touch a saw or a hammer." His co-workers were over-heard to have a saying: "When Zip is lead man, no more get trouble," and he was renowned for his ability to sharpen a hand-saw, as well as a moi hook for when he got off work. Predeceased by Betty, his wife of 60 years, Hideo is survived by his brother Yasuo; his son Melvin (Stephanie); his daughters, Elaine (Monty) Downs and Sharon (Donald) Ito; grandchildren Kevin Ito, Keri (Steve) Schmidt, Sean (Chesne) and Keith Kitamura; great grandchildren Cullen and Connor Kitamura; and numerous cousins, in-laws, nieces, nephews and friends. KARL ANTHONY MOWAT Born on February 19, 1950, went home to our Lord on March 10, 2005. His peaceful and spiritual "move" from this place to God's happened at the first glimpse of sunlight exposing the island of Lanai from his window. Karl was raised and educated on Oahu. His summers were spent with his grandparents, James & Beatrice Lewis' on their homestead in Kapa'akea. At a young age he helped "Papa" and "Nana" with their cattle ranch. Karl grew up among the "old timers". His knowledge of Molokai and the people came from direct contact. "Nana" was a school teacher so there was a lot of discipline and teaching even during his summers. As faith would have it, Karl graduated from Molokai High in 1968. While working on the movie "The Hawaiians" on Maui, he met Bridget A. Dando who became his wife of 35 years. Arragon Kekoawiwaole/Surf, Ohia Lehua/Patrick, Kilinahe and Hawai'iiloa/Laree are the greatest gifts in this marriage. The bonus blessings are the grandchildren Pohakala, Laakea, Hi'ilei, Taye Halia, Ke'auhou and I'o'nalanimai. Karl became a master in tree trimming. He attended Davey Tree Institute in Ohio and later became the manager of Trees Hawai'i. Faith than brought Karl and his family to Moloka'i in 1976. He than became the Manager of Moloka'i Petroleum. From fuel operations, Karl moved into mechanics. He worked for Island Forest Products, and Kewitt Construction as a mechanic. He then learned machinery and worked for Goodfellow Brothers as a heavy equipment mechanic. He later started his own business M & M Auto in Kapa'akea. Karl loved the 'aina, the ocean and people. He was an activist for Hawaiian rights and orchestrated protest and access to Kaho'olawe. He was one of the founders of The Hawaiian Academy of Knowledge, an alternative education facility for youth. He was well versed in island and world issues historically and currently. He could carry on a conversation with anyone. Karl is survived by his father, William P. Mowat/Nancy along with brother, Billy Mowat/Pat; sister Barbara Angelo/Norman, sister-in-law Deldrene who all reside on Oahu. Sister Gayla/Rick live on the homestead in Kapa'akea, Molokai. He is also survived by aunts Tita Mowat Lyons & Lyn Braley, uncle Steve Braley, special hanae aunt Haumea Judd, and cousins, nieces & nephews. He was preceded in death by his brother Harry James and his mother Dorothy. Please come and join the family in a celebration of life on Saturday, April 2, 2005, 10:00 AM at Saint Sophia Church in Kaunakaka'i, Molokai. Immediately following the services will be the scattering of ashes & Pa'ina at the Mowat ohana residence in Kapa'akea Homestead, Molokai. [Adv Apr. 1, 2005]
