Bascone, Bartolome "Bart" a veteran Island musician, conductor, composer and arranger best known for his novelty song "Who Is the Lolo (Who Stole My Pakalolo)," which Don Ho recorded and made a radio hit, died July 22 in Kihei, Maui. He was 55. Bascone wrote and performed "Goin' to Molokini" on a "Home Grown" album in 1997. Other signature tunes included "Makapu'u" and "Lucky Livin' in Hawai'i," which shared his fondness for the Islands. He also created a number of commercial jingles for such clients as Caesars Cleaners in Honolulu and Marcos Restaurant on Maui. "He had the biggest heart; he was always giving; a guy who never said no," said comedian Mel Cabang, who befriended Bascone years ago. "Whenever I went to Maui, he would sit in (and do music) with me." Bascone had a long and varied career in the Islands and on the Mainland. By trade, he was a guitarist, but he favored arranging tunes for performers including Keali'i Reichel, the Makaha Sons, Teresa Bright, Uluwehi Guerrero, Yvonne Elliman and Cabang. He was enlisted as musical conductor for nightclub and showroom performer Dick Jensen, and worked with Jensen in Hawai'i and Las Vegas. The pair also performed on the Ed Sullivan Show. Bascone often credited his mentor, Don Costa, who arranged scores of songs and albums for Frank Sinatra, for much of his success. Bascone is survived by his sister, Judy Hemingway, nieces and nephews, and his companion of 22 years, Lorna Silkwood. Services are pending, but a "celebration of life" is planned for mid-August in Kihei, followed by scattering of ashes off Maui. [Adv, July 27, 2005]

Blatt, Francis Theodore Retired FAA Station Chief, Ham Radio pioneer and enthusiast, Francis Theodore Blatt, born August 27, 1910 to Albert Blatt and Martha Voss, lived most of his life in Kaimuki on 17th Avenue, died January 13, 2005, in his sleep, at home. After graduating from McKinley High School, he became Chief Radio Operator for Libby, McNeil & Libby where he installed the first interisland wireless communication system. He worked at the U.S. Navy Yard, Pearl Harbor, Hawaii from 1934-1945 and received numerous awards for ability, industry, work knowledge, and qualities of leadership, including the Meritorious Civilian Service to the United States Navy. He then became the Federal Aviation Agency Station Chief for Hawaii retiring with distinction in 1970. An amateur radio enthusiast since age ten, he built radio receivers and transmitters before the time vacuum tubes were available, and was actively advising and repairing radios and antennas until his death. His first ham license was K6ETF in 1928. After WWII, his call sign became KH6KH which remained to the present. He was active member of Amateur Radio Relay League, Honolulu Amateur Radio Club, and the Military Amateur Radio Service. He attended Honolulu Assembly of God Church on Koko Head Avenue regularly and is survived by step-son, Kimonui Holgen of Oregon, two granddaughters, and his many friends. In lieu of flowers, please make monetary contributions to Assembly of God Francis and Antonia Blatt Memorial Fund. Many thanks to Drs. Sharon Lawler, William Loui, Paul DeMare, and Gary Lattimer, and their staff, and St. Francis Medical Center Liliha Sullivan-4 nurses for the excellent medical care provided. [Adv, Jan 17, 2004]

Bowman, Clyde died Thursday, April 21 at Wilcox Hospital from a heart attack. He is survived by wife, Louise Bowman, and daughter, Devaki Holman, both residents on Kauai, Hawaii.. He was born Feb. 17, 1924 in Ohio, but lived most of his life in San Bernardino, Calif., where he was a successful food broker for major companies before moving to San Clemente, Calif. in 1978 Clyde and Louise were active members of the Presbyterian Church. The family came to Kauai in 2001. Clyde is a veteran of the WW2 War, serving in the US Navy. Clyde, or "Babe" as he is known in musical circles, was a singer, songwriter, arranger, and accomplished musician. He acquired the nickname "Babe" because he was so young when he started working in Big Bands. "Babe" started playing the trumpet at the age of 8 and the trombone and saxophone at 10. In Jr. High School he organized his own 10-piece band with vocalist Gayle Peck, who would later reach stardom and be known as Julie London. Clyde "Babe" Bowman played with Big Band "greats" like Stan Kenton, Harry James, Dextor Gordon, Artie Shaw, Hawk Halstead, Les

Carlson and Chuck Corbett. On Kaua'i, Clyde started his own recording companies, Bowman Music and Gobow Records of Hanalei from which five musical CDs were produced. In 2002 to 03, Clyde and High School musical director, Catherine Paleka, organized a Kapa'a High School "Swing Band" summer program. The kids rehearsed every Saturday and were so enthusiastic about learning Big Band music that for the next school year Clyde booked them into hotel engagements, weddings and other events around the island. Their performances inspired donations from private parties and service clubs of the community to help the Kapa'a's Music Department repair old instruments and purchase new ones. Clyde will be remembered for his kindness and generosity. As a member of the Rotary Club of Hanalei, and the Church of the Pacific his contributions to the community were significant. Brostek, Mildred Johnson When Mildred Johnson Brostek began preaching the gospel in Hawaii nearly 70 years ago, her Pentecostal brand of Christianity and the very idea of a female minister were rare in the islands. The Georgia native, a graduate of Holmes Bible College, shared her scriptural message in outdoor revival meetings in downtown Honolulu and opened the first Pentecostal Holiness mission here in 1937, a forerunner of the nondenominational fundamentalist Christian churches that are popular today. The storefront mission drew hundreds of servicemen during World War II. Brostek was founder of the Door of Faith Church, which has 24 branches in Hawaii, the mainland, the Philippines, Okinawa and New Zealand. She died June 10, 2005 at her Honolulu home at the age of 93. "Mildred was a pioneer of the Pentecostal message in Hawaii," said the Rev. James Marocco, senior pastor of King's Cathedral on Maui. "She encouraged the faith of many Christians in Hawaii and led many people to come to Jesus. She was a stalwart. She felt God could do the impossible," Marocco said. "She lived what she believed all her life," said Sister Joan Chatfield, who was head of the Catholic diocese's ecumenical office when she became acquainted with Brostek. "She was genuinely kind to people and extremely humble." She last preached at the Door of Faith home church at 1161 Young St. about a year ago, said assistant Hazel Reyes. At that time she anointed her son, Alexander Peter Brostek, as new head of the church. She was born in Odum, Ga. She is survived by son Alexander Peter; brother Wilder Johnson; sisters Agnes O'Daniel, Laurie Saxon, Wilma Trip, Thelma Murphy and Josie Osborne; five grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren. Services will be at 6 p.m. Monday at Mililani Memorial Park Mortuary. Visitation will begin at 5 p.m. Shuttle buses will leave the Young Street church at 4:30 p.m. and the Nanakuli Door of Faith Mission at 4 p.m. [SB, June 23, 2005]

Brostek, Sister Mildred Johnson Founder of the Door of Faith Church and Bible School, Inc., went to be with the Lord after laboring for Him for more than 60 years in Hawaii. At her home, early Friday morning, June 10, 2005, the old soldier closed her eyes and slipped peacefully away. Born on September 24, 1911 in Georgia, Mildred was the eldest girl of ten children. She accepted Christ as a young teenager during an old-fashion southern camp meeting and never looked back. After graduating from Holmes Bible College, a twenty-five year-old Mildred Johnson sailed to the Hawaiian Islands. While boarding a small boat to bring her to the shores of Molokai, her purse fell into the Pacific Ocean. The beautiful blonde missionary arrived alone and penniless in Hawaii, armed with just her faith in a big God. From a humble store-front mission on Pensacola Street, and despite much ridicule from her colleagues for being a female minister, Mildred marched forward and opened churches across the state of Hawaii. During the past sixty-four years, Pastor Mildred established branch churches around Oahu and in Lanai, Maui, Molokai, Kauai, the big island of Hawaii, Oregon, and New York and around the world: in Okinawa, New Zealand, and in countless locations in the Philippines. Although she was called to the Hawaiian people, her life for Christ has affected thousands here in Hawaii and abroad, people of every ethnicity. She left an indelible impression on all who knew her. Her love for God was contagious and was evident in all that she said and did. Her faithfulness unto the end challenges us all to remain steadfast and to do more for the cause of Christ. She is survived by her only son, Alexander Peter Brostek, five grandchildren, three great grandchildren, her five sisters, one brother, and hundreds of spiritual children around the world.
